SCHOOL BONDS AUTHORIZED AT MASS MEETING

Business Meeting Handled
With Skill by J. Rhoades
as Chairman

ARE MANY DISCUSSIONS

Issue is Authorized and Two Sites Will be Placed on Ballot for Voters

Thanks to the genius of James A. Rhoades as a presiding officer, the chaos which threatened the assembly at the high school Tuesday evening—truly a mass meeting, with every nook and corner filled—was reduced to order and the business which brought hundreds of people together was transacted in time for them to adjourn to their homes by about 10 o'clock.

A vote had been registered instructing the board of trustees to call a bond election in the sum of $85,000, and another vote to place on the ballot the two sites still available. The sites are, the east side Verdugo road and Broadway site and the west side San-Kearlworth site, to be voted upon simultaneously with the bond ballot.

The meeting was opened at 8 o'clock with a number by the high school orchestra, directed by Mrs. Dora Gibson.

After tremendous applause had died away the orchestra members filed out and Dr. H. V. Brown, president of the high school board of trustees, called the meeting to order and announced that Judge Lowe, chairman of the previous adjourned meeting, had resigned his appointment and that it would be in order to select a new chairman. He suggested that the chief business of the meeting should be an instruction to the board to call a bond election for $85,000 and that the next business should be provision for a preferential election of a site. He mentioned the

REP. JOHNSON MADE SERIOUS CHARGES

Says Mentally Deranged
Soldiers Were Shot in Front Line Trenches

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—"Traitors, cowards and men mentally deranged," may have been shot by their comrades in France, Representative Royal Johnson, South Dakota, who served in the A. E. F., said in the house today. His statement was a verbal bomb shell and Representatives Rayburn, Texas, and Bulwinkle, South Carolina, immediately challenged the statement. Johnson emphatically denied charges of Senator Watson, Georgia, that 12 members of the A. E. F. were hanged without trial.

"Although never in my presence," declared Johnson, "nevertheless, I believe I know that traitors, cowards, enemy spies and those mentally unfit for front line duty have been instantly shot. Only divine providence can determine to which class they belonged."

"This is a serious charge," declared Rayburn. "Does the gentleman intend to say that under any circumstances men at the front who became mentally deranged were shot by their own men?"

"Yes," replied Johnson. "Members of the A. E. F. who may have been mentally deranged—and Providence only knows—who may have been traitors or cowards—no body can tell, were undoubtedly shot in the front lines."

BELIEVE FOUL PLAY
BRECKENRIDGE, Colo., Nov. 9.—Police here today are working on the theory that William T. Keough, 47, prominent Summit county official, was murdered and the body burned to conceal the crime. Keough's charred body was found in the ruins of a rooming house which was destroyed by fire Tuesday. Deep wounds in the head led authorities to believe that Keough had been killed and the house fired.

Hate, Superstition Romance and Fear, on Editorial Page

Hate is a bitter poison says Della E. Stewart in her article on the editorial page this evening.

Superstition is one of the worst of bad habits, says James W. Foley, in "The Listening Post," also on the editorial page.

"Romance of a man of 57 and a woman of 27—there is no such thing," says Henry James in his comment on the day's news.

Dr. Frank Crane talks on a "World Union of Intellectuals," in his column this evening and the editorials deal with such subjects as "Dollar Wheat," "The Sinner of Mediocrity," and other topics outstanding in their importance.

This is but a sample of what the editorial page has in store for you this evening. We present it to you in the firm belief that it is the best editorial page published in the west. There is not an evening but it gives you something well worth your attention and consideration.

Appeal To Display Flags On Armistice Day, Friday Salute Flag In Parade

Display the Stars and Stripes on Armistice day! Men are urged to uncover their heads when the colors pass in parade.

This is an appeal from the Glendale Post of the American Legion of California. Every house and building should have a flag displayed on Friday.

The day is going to be a great one in the history of the United States and Glendale, like other cities, towns and hamlets, should be a riot of red, white and blue, the assembled colors that symbolize the greatest nation on the face of the earth.

Everyone should arrange to wear a white daisy, the official flower of the American Legion.

And at 9 a. m. don't forget to bow your head in silent tribute to the Unknown Hero. Keep your head bowed for two minutes and during that time make your supplication to the Great God of All to bring about Peace on Earth, Good Will Among Men.

CELERY TAKEN OFF MARKET AS UNSAFE TO EAT

City Health Officer Eckles
Finds Arsenic in Products on Sale Here

CAUSE MUCH SICKNESS

One Grower Admits Using 35 Pounds Arsenic to Acre Near Here

Citizens of Glendale are warned by City Health Officer J. E. Eckles to refrain from eating celery grown in Southern California until further notice. Sanitary inspectors working out of the city health office have discovered that practically all of the celery being offered in Glendale has been sprayed with an arsenic solution and is liable to cause severe cases of poisoning. This is not purely a local combination but exists all over Southern California it is said.

The government has advocated spraying fruit and vegetables with a solution containing a minute quantity of arsenic. This spraying must be done, however, when the fruit and vegetables are small and not just previous to offering them for sale. The use of this solution has never been advocated or authorized for spraying celery. One grower confessed that he had been spraying his celery with this solution and was using 35 pounds of arsenic to the acre of celery. He said that the celery was sprayed only a few days before taken to market.

During the past month, numerous cases of poisoning have been reported to the local health authorities but they have been unable to find the cause for it. Tuesday afternoon Sanitary Inspector Hollenbeck found celery offered for sale at a fruit and vegetable stand on the Los Feliz road between the San Fernando road and the Southern Pacific tracks that had been heavily sprayed with the arsenic solution. The celery was from the ranch of T. Muramoti, 3305 La Salle street. A bunch of the celery was sent to Dr. Carl Wilson of the department of Public Service in Los Angeles and was found to be coated with a white and green film that contained sufficient arsenic to warrant Dr. Wilson advising the local authorities in condemning the celery and taking immediate action to notify the people of Glendale.

Tuesday night, Health Officer J. E. Eckles and Sanitary Inspector Hollenbeck attended a meeting of the state, county and district food and drug inspectors in Los Angeles and acquainted them with the discovery made in this district. The matter was discussed at length but no definite course of action was adopted. Glendale health department announces that a vigorous campaign against both the grower of this celery and the dealer offering it for sale will be launched today. Sanitary Inspector Hollenbeck is busy making rounds of all fruit and vegetable stands and markets in the city. All celery bearing the slightest trace of arsenic solution will be condemned and the sale prohibited.

PRIVATES COME BACK AT A. E. F. OFFICERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The Private Soldiers' and Sailors' Legion in a letter to Secretary Weeks declared that "unless the records of the war department have been tampered with," a scrutiny of them will furnish "all the evidence necessary to prove conclusively that tyranny, brutality and abuse were the rule and not the exception in the attitude of officers toward enlisted men" in the A. E. F. The letter was written in connection with Mr. Weeks' request that the American Legion assist in securing facts relative to alleged mistreatment of soldiers.

SNEAK THIEVES ARE OPERATING HERE WARNS POLICE

James McBryde Home is Robbed Tuesday During Absence of Family

People of Glendale are warned to leave no valuables in their homes when the house is left alone. Sneak thieves are operating here, and pickpockets are expected to be operating during the week, together with the usual band of sneak thieves that congregate in cities and towns where celebrations are being held. Residents are advised to guard their valuables. One burglary has been announced, and others will follow unless due diligence is maintained by owners of valuables.

Chief of Police Martin advises everybody to notify his department when suspicious characters are noted. Chief Martin declares that the Sheesley Shows may be being followed by a band of petty bandits, through no fault of the shows, and the Sheesley show people are as anxious as he is to be rid of suspicious characters.

Burglars entered the home of James McBryde, Glendale attorney and adjutant of Glendale Post No. 127 of the American Legion during the absence of Mr. and Mrs. McBryde and looted it of jewelry. Mr. and Mrs. McBryde had been absent during the greater portion of the day Tuesday and when they returned to the De Luxe apartments on California and Brand boulevard they found two jewel cases lying open on a dresser. They had been emptied by a robber or robbers.

E. bangle, the crown was initialed; gold German club pin, high school class pin of 1914, small diamond lavalliere set with pearl bangle and gold chain; gold baby band ring, two sets of pearl earrings, one set containing long bangles, Glendale Savings Bank book, signet ring with initials H.E.M., pair of bone cuff links, string of pearl beads, silver chain with beads and bangle and a square locket.

Ohio—Democrats gained in city elections, winning 24 mayors to 37 for their opponents. Marion, President Harding's home town, went Democratic. A constitutional amendment for a soldier's bonus won. Cleveland adopted a city manager form of government.

Virginia—Elected a Democratic mayor by 60,000 majority.

Maryland—Democrats won the state comptrollership and strengthened their hold in the legislature.

Indiana—Democrats elected 30 mayors, three in Republican strongholds. Republicans elected 21.

New Jersey—Democrats standing on the wet issue lost. Republicans claimed gains in the legislature.

Miss Pollard and Mrs. H. V. Brown as models, demonstrated practical gymnasium suits and Mrs. Baxter explained the gym goods carried by a local store for students of Glendale high.

WOULD CEASE ALL NAVY WORK NOV. 12

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Suspension of all naval construction by the United States during the armament conference may be announced by President Harding in his speech at the opening of the conference Saturday. WIRE BUSTLE LATE PLACE FOR HOCH

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Nov. 9.—To call Frances Hobbs, a woman resident of this place, a "bootlegger" would be slander. The dictionary defines a "bootlegger" thus: "To sell liquor against the law; so called from the practice of carrying a flask in the leg of a boot." But, getting back to Frances Hobbs, Frances undoubtedly sold contraband liquor of a more or less uncertain quality, but she carried none of it in her boot. She was arrested by the state police and fined $100 and sentenced to sixty days in jail by Squire Meek.

Although the state policemen knew Frances had booze on her person they could not locate it until they had another one of the same sex as Frances to do the frisking. To the amazement of the police the woman was wearing a fairly good sized bustle made of heavily padded wire. In this Frances carried several half pints loaded with moonshine. Just how Frances extracted her hooch without trouble the police have not learned. But she was caught passing a half-pint bottle to a thirsty resident on a side street and taking his $2 bill in payment.

TO REGAIN BEAUTY GIRL GOES FOR AID

Flo Lieuellen Takes Trip in Small Car to Have Face Fixed by Dr. Mayo

DENVER, Nov. 9.—With her face horribly marred as a result of acid burning, Miss Flo Lieuellen, of San Francisco, is making a heroic struggle to overcome the handicap of poverty and reach Rochester, Minn., where she hopes her ill-shaped features will be corrected by operations at the Mayo Brothers hospital. Miss Lieuellen came to Denver endeavoring to raise sufficient funds to continue her journey to the Minnesota city, and was aided by a local charitable organization.

She made the trip from California alone in a small automobile, which interested persons here had overhauled for her. She declared that a jealous suitor threw carbolic acid in her face four years ago in San Francisco, "so no one else would have me."

Unable to obtain work because of the repulsive marks on her features, and, needless to say, Miss Lieuellen determined to make her way to Rochester, where she hopes to regain her beauty. She said she had been promised free treatment upon her arrival there.

In 1917, according to Miss Lieuellen, she was a dancer in a San Francisco cabaret, having followed the show life of the city from the time she was a young girl and able to give recitations. When she refused the marriage offer of an admirer she says, her suitor became enraged and flung acid in her face with the statement that if he "couldn't have her no one else could." The girl's face and throat were horribly disfigured, and several operations were necessary to save her life and eyesight.

WATCH DEFLECTED BULLET, SAVES LIFE

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Nov. 9.—Constable Charles Barnhart, of Hancock, considers himself the luckiest man in the world today. He stoutly maintains that he owes his life to his watch, which he reverently caresses, perhaps unconsciously, every time he relates his narrow escape from death. Constable Barnhart was patrolling his "beat" recently, musing abstractedly, when he discovered two men loitering in the rear of an automobile concern. Their actions being suspicious, the constable decided to arrest them for trespassing.

Approaching them, Barnhart inquired what they were doing. In reply one of the men drew a revolver and fired into the ground. "When I started after him he aimed and fired at me," Barnhart declared, "but fate intervened with the course of the bullet. Almed so true that fatal damage would have occurred had its course not been interrupted, the bullet struck Barnhart's watch and was harmlessly deflected. His assailants escaped while he was arousing himself from his daze and getting his feet back on the ground again."

CANADIANS BUY MANY AUTOMOBILES

REGINA, Sask., Nov. 9.—Figures published by the provincial government show that the number of automobiles owned in Saskatchewan in 1920 was 60,325, as compared with 55,010 in 1919 and 46,880 in 1918. This is a remarkable showing when it is considered that in 1908 the total number of motor vehicles of all descriptions in the province was only seven. This rapid increase is attributed to the number of automobiles is attributed to the rapid settlement of the province and the prosperity achieved by the settlers in farm homes. In this country, where farms are often paid for by a single crop, more than half the automobiles are owned by farmers.

BURCH ATTORNEY TO GO EAST TO SEEK MORE EVIDENCE

Mrs. Obenchain Will be Tried After Burch Case is Ended

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 9.—Paul Schenck, chief counsel for Arthur C. Burch, was to leave today for Chicago and Evanston, Ill., to secure additional evidence to be used by the defense when Burch's trial for the killing of John Belton Kennedy opens on November 22. Schenck will be joined at Evanston by Rev. William A. Burch, father of the accused man.

"The evidence we seek is relative principally to Arthur's mental condition," Schenck said. "It will be used in a new effort to prove him of an unbalanced mind."

The joint legal defense of Burch and Madalynne Obenchain, accused of complicity in the same crime, scored what is believed to be a telling point in securing the postponement of Burch's trial.

This was admittedly part of an effort to change the court calendar and force Madalynne to trial first, bringing her charges with a jury superior to those of Burch.

District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine immediately countered the Burch postponement by securing a sidilar postponement in the Obenchain case. Madalynne will now go to trial immediately after a verdict in Burch's case, starting November 22, is reached.

YOUTHFUL VISITOR BREAKS IN SENATE

Four Year Old Boy Gets Into Nation's August Sanctum Without Election

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The sacred Senate chamber, stamping ground of staid, dignified solons, was invaded by one to whom tradition made no difference whatever. The intruder was a little four-year-old child, who strayed from his mother while she was absorbed in the inspection of the Capitol with a party of tourists.

The little boy, evincing no interest in the guide's oratorical explanations, began a little inspection of his own and calmly toddled into the Senate Chamber in the midst of peace treaty discussion.

He stood unconcerned in the center aisle for a moment, gazing around him wonderingly, and spying the door of the Republican cloak room open, he made a beeline for it. He was soon surrounded by a group of Senators from whom the cloak of dignity had completely disappeared, each trying his own method of baby lingo to ascertain the intruder's name. The impromptu reception was cut short by a messenger, who led the unannounced little visitor back to his mother, who had frantically searched for him while he was on his exploration tour.

BREWERIES TO PUT FIRES OUT AGAIN

Medicinal Beer Will Flow for Only Ten Days Then Dry Period Again

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Medicinal beer will flow freely for the next ten days. After that again comes the drought. Treasury officials announced today that enactment of the anti-beer bill, upon which the senate has agreed to vote November 18, automatically voids the beer regulations. This means that the four breweries recently licensed to make medicinal beer must again close the doors. Passage of the bill is virtually certain.

BIG TIM MURPHY WAS CONVICTED MAIL ROBBERY CHICAGO

Labor Leader Will Serve Two Years on Three Counts Against Him

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—A jury in federal court today found "Big Tim" Murphy, labor leader, guilty of conspiracy in connection with robbery of the mails of $396,000 at the Dearborn street station. Murphy, long a leader of Chicago's labor gang wars, was declared guilty with three others, after the jury had deliberated all night. Those convicted with Murphy were Vincenzo Cichmano, Peter Geirum and Paul Volanti.

The four were convicted on these charges: Conspiracy to rob the mails, plotting to conceal the loot and conspiracy to keep the booty. Each of the three counts carries with it a two-year prison sentence. They were found not guilty of actually robbing the mails, which carries a 25-year sentence. The men will not be sentenced until next week, pending a motion for a new trial. Ralph Teter and George Jecker, former mail clerks, pleaded guilty and testified for the government.

ELECTION WARS IN KENTUCKY COSTLY

Eleven Are Dead, Two More Cannot Live While Many Are Wounded

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 9.—Kentucky awoke today from another costly election to find eleven dead and fourteen wounded. Two of the wounded are not expected to live. The most fatal election fights were in "Body Breathitt," where eight were killed in a fight at Clay Hole; and Sylvester Howard, Jr., was shot to death at Spring Fork. Two were probably fatally wounded and two others seriously hurt at Clay Hole.

Other casualties were in Ravenna and Frozen Creek. Republicans claimed the election of Houston Quinn for mayor of Louisville by 6,000, against Harris, Democrat.

KITCHEN HELPER GOES ON STAGE

BELLAIRE, Ohio, Nov. 9.—A chorus girls in a local theater received a fright when a man, who evidently had fallen from the water tower, climbed onto the stage during a scene set to represent the deck of a ship. He carried a butcher knife in his belt. It was thought he was hunting trouble. He was too seasick to navigate the stage ship, however. It developed that he was a kitchen employee of a local club.

ARTILLERY SEEK NEW FORM SPURS

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 9.—With "horseless" field artillery how can a field artillery officer with propriety wear spurs and carry a riding crop, and without these articles of personal adornment what does life hold of joy for an artilleryman? These questions are agitating the commissioned personnel of the field artillery branch of the service stationed in Hawaii since the arm became "motorized." A return to the swagger stick appears probable as one way out, but for spurs no satisfactory substitute is in sight.

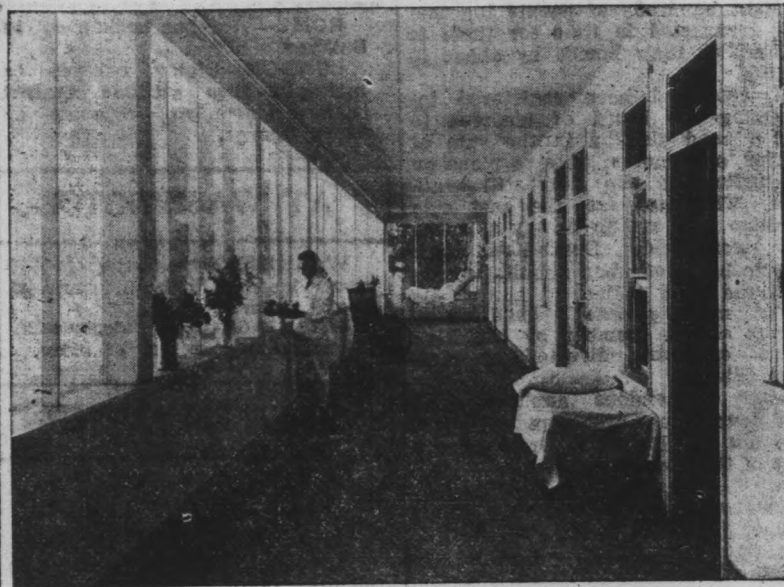

The children of firm parents generally have infirm morals.

LOST $55 AIDING A HUMAN DECOY

DILLONVILLE, Ohio, Nov. 9.—Leaving his auto, Wilbur Clark, a local resident, approached the body of a man lying in the road. As Clark bent over to examine what he thought was an injured man, another fellow, with a gun, appeared at the side of the road, ordering Clark to "Put 'em up!" The decoy then took Clark's gun, and the two highwaymen stole $55 in cash, a tie pin and a watch. Clark's drive on.

When doctors don't know what on earth was the matter with him, they say he died "of a complication of diseases."

NOT BEAUTIFUL WAS STARR'S VERDICT AMERICAN LADY

Chicago Says Race is Too
Mongrel to Evolve Beautiful Girls

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Are American women beautiful?

"No!" emphatically declares Prof. Frederick Starr, head of the department of anthropology at the University of Chicago. "Positively no—especially the blondes." In any point of feminine pulchritude, he is reported to have told his classes the American girl, blonde or brunette, does not compare with the dusky damsels of Liberia, the Korean sub-debs, "with their soft, silky, smooth yellow skins, or with the beautiful coloring of the Igorrotes!"

"Yes!" is the indignant counter-claim of co-eds, clergymen, society leaders, actresses, artists and more men. "Yes, our girls are the most beautiful in the world."

But first listen to the professor: "The trouble with us is that our American good nature makes us call any girl who is not phenomenally ugly, pretty. As a matter of fact, a handsome man or a beautiful woman is a rarity in these United States. The American race is too mongrel to evolve beautiful girls."

"Why—why," gasped Mrs. Frederick D. Countiss, society leader, "the most ravishingly, exquisitely beautiful women I ever saw were Americans. I love to look at them myself. Why doesn't Prof. Starr go to Liberia?"

Louis Betts, society portrait artist, said American women are "most dazlingly beautiful of all—they have life, vivacity, charm and grace." He said he painted all over Europe and saw nothing to equal the girls of the U. S. A.

And Alderman John J. ("Bathhouse John") Coughlin, Beau Brummel of the city council, spoke thus: "Say, our girls have class. Other girls leave off where American girls begin."

Mrs. Lester Armour, noted as a beautiful society blonde, intimated that she did not consider the professor's statements worth discussing.

"Being a blonde myself," said Mrs. James Ward Thorne, "I really believe I had better keep still on this question."

The Rev. Norman Hutton, pastor of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church, said American men are not "spoofing" when they praise the attractiveness of their women.

"Why, they are as beautiful as any," he declared. "I do not refer to painted fools. I mean those healthy, normal, natural, graceful creatures who have a spiritual radiance."

The co-eds who heard Prof. Starr's talk said—well, perhaps it would not be good taste to quote the young ladies. Suffice to say that a frigid atmosphere pervades the classroom and that there is some apprehension that the undergraduates will take to wearing smoked glasses on occasions, such as parties and dances.

POSTAL CLERKS IN CAPITOL POLITE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Walter Hays' postal clerks are becoming so imbued with the chief's "humanizing" doctrines that they're liable to be jerked into court for scaring someone to death.

A business man writes the post-office department that the clerk said "thank you" when he purchased stamps at the Hudson Terminal station in New York.

"When I recovered my breath," writes the business man, "I told him that that was something that had never happened to me before in the post-office, and I appreciated it."

It has been suggested that a contest be held to determine the city whose letter carriers are the most polite.

TRY SULPHUR ON AN ECZEMA SKIN

Costs Little and Overcomes
Trouble Almost Over Night

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.—Adv.

WEST VIRGINIA HAS BLUE LAWS DRESS OF YOUNG GIRLS

Form-Revealing Dresses,
Rouge, Lip-stick All
Put Under Ban

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 9.—"Soft" and "clinging" will be deleted from the vocabularies of West Virginia's young womanhood under an edict of the state department of education.

Prudence and modesty henceforth must be the watchwords.

Banned are the soft, clinging, form-revealing dresses.

Short skirts, which start with the ring of pink above the rolled stockings must come down, while the stockings must go up to where our grandmothers wore them.

Moonlight tete-a-tetes, where loving arms are where loving arms should be and clandestine kisses bring ecstasies of delight, are relegated to the land of might-have-been.

Or, briefly, everything with a kick is thrown into the discard, and a new deal, with plain and simple dresses, cotton hose, rougeless cheeks, chaperons and a slangless language as trumps, is called.

Recently the girls at Point Pleasant High school, under the direction of Miss Hannah Hood, graduate of Goucher College, adopted a new code of morals, including "some of the ideals which the girls will strive to attain." The code—all blue—was approved and adopted by the state department of education.

Real Blue Code
Copies, it is understood, will be sent to all public schools and co-educational colleges in the state, with the recommendation that the provisions be made effective.

The code follows:

1.—We approve of a plain and simple dress for school.

2.—We feel that light-weight georgettes and chiffons are undesirable for school wear.

3.—We disapprove of soft, clinging materials which reveal the form.

4.—We disapprove of extreme low necks and formal evening gowns.

5.—We approve of dress lengths being regulated to fit the physique of the individual.

6.—We disapprove of rolled and "loud" hose.

7.—We consider silk hose unnecessary for school wear.

8.—We believe school shoes should be comfortable, with low heels.

9.—We disapprove of the use of eyebrow pencil, lip stick, rouge and heavy face powder.

10.—We believe in chaperons for all parties, including auto rides.

11.—We approve of the "hands-off" policy in friendship between boys and girls.

12.—We believe no girl should accept presents or auto rides from strangers.

13.—We believe every girl should be especially particular in selecting subjects and words when conversing with a boy.

14.—We believe slang should be excluded from our speech.

15.—We believe no girl should take part in gossiping.

16.—Every girl who comes to school immodestly attired will be sent before a committee composed of the lady members of the faculty.

Truths in Epigram

Censure is the tax a man pays to the public for being eminent. — Jonathan Swift (1617-1745).

Nurture your mind with great thoughts. To believe in the heroic makes heroes. — Benjamin Disraeli (1804-1881).

What do you suppose will satisfy the soul except to walk free and acknowledge no superiors. — Walt Whitman (1819-1892).

POT AND KETTLE

An exchange asks this question: "Who is the biggest profiteer, the man who charges more than his goods are worth, or the man who charges more than his work is worth?"

It may be that this is put forth in quest of information, but more likely it is meant to imply an opinion. It may be variously considered.

When a comparison of the size of two people is made, the proper answer is that the larger is the bigger, rather than the biggest. However, the grammatical aspect may be permitted to pass.

The real basis of this particular question probably is the fact that the friend of the pot desires to call the kettle black.

Moral quality of the profiteer is the same no matter whether he sells shoes or sells labor. If the individual exacts more than a reasonable price he becomes a profiteer. It is not the privilege of either type of profiteer to excuse himself because of the kindred iniquity of his neighbor.

It will be admitted, as the questioner insinuates, that there has been, and is, profiteering in labor. Capital always has exacted all it could. It has organized so as to carry this practice into the fullest use. Labor—some branches of it—has done the same thing. As a rule, when conflicts have arisen, capital has had the advantage, and has won the victory.

The plain truth is that, with honorable exceptions, the two elements are hostile. Each seeks to get the ultimate dollar. Each is controlled by the desire to help itself, not help the other. Both generally ignore the rights of the public utterly.

Whose, primarily, is the fault? Who inaugurated the policy of greed?

Both questions belong to the puzzle department along with the other immortal problem concerning priority as to the chicken and the egg.

"THE LIGHT THAT FAILED"

The story of the League of Nations is now old. For a time the inspiration that found expression in a compact for world peace, shone over the world, a white and radiant light.

There were those who declined to read aright the essence of the agreement. They brought about its rejection by the United States. The "great light" wavered, nearly disappeared, then revived but to burn only dimly. No longer was it a promise. It was the mere indication of a hope. It was the token of what might have been.

Had the United States entered the League of Nations, the entire logic of the situation was for its immediate assumption of leadership. It would have been potent in forming the destinies of Europe and America. Its potency would have been on the side of justice and tranquility. The time had arrived when the long-held dream of a systematized law and order to embrace all peoples might have been realized.

For reasons that no analysis of their words ever has explained, certain American statesmen opposed with bitterness, and defeated the league plan. They sought to smother the interest that had been aroused in America concerning the welfare of the world. They spoke of entanglements, but could cite no danger of entanglements. Their attitude was puzzling, for in instances they were the men who had advocated in former years exactly the principles embodied in the agreement that later they spurned.

Yet the people of the United States had not become apathetic. They had not abandoned their beliefs. Their temper was recognized by President Harding when he summoned the nations to friendly council. The subject of disarmament will be a central theme. Incidental to discussion of it will be a declaration of policies, an adjustment of both policy and method so as to serve the public good.

Had the first organization been perfected as devised, there could have been no need of a conference on disarmament. But the original aim was thwarted. The later council was made thereby a necessity. As it is about to convene it has the sympathy, the moral support, and carries the hopes of millions.

THE SNEER OF MEDIOCRITY

It is surprising that a paper of such standing as the New York Times should allot any part of its editorial space to sneering at Henry Ford. Ordinarily the Times is lucid, erudite, somewhat didactic, but wholly respectable.

Henry Ford is one of the big figures of this generation. The fact that he was permitted to prosper despite the payment of good wages to his employees is without doubt somewhat irritating to a journal invariably on the side of capital, in the way that term usually is understood.

That the Times has a grievance against Ford is a reasonable assumption. It refrains from mentioning the grievance and exposing the error of the manufacturer in relation to racial questions. The course that it failed to take might have been taken with perfect propriety.

The pretext used for the attempt at ridicule was the purchase by Ford of a copy of McGuffey's First Reader. He was delighted with the purchase because it made his set of that series almost complete. Many persons have a hobby for collecting. It is an innocent and diverting hobby. They gather old prints or books or pipes or teapots, or stamps or coins, according to their several tastes. Some who collect books are not actuated by literary aspirations or sympathies. If the book is a first copy, or rare, or the work of a famous writer, they reach for it in exactly the spirit that one of another taste reaches for the antique pot.

To one who had spent youthful hours in poring over McGuffey, to have the complete set now would be to conjure up visions of school days, old comrades, forgotten teachers, boyhood dreams. It would be a pleasing possession. Ford's feelings may be readily understood. His desire is natural and harmless. It does not even serve as adequate basis for an editorial conceived in malice and executed with clownish grimace.

DOLLAR WHEAT

Wheat in Chicago has touched the dollar level. In other days this would have meant a rise, and that prosperity had reached the farmer. The owner of broad acres would have been jubilant.

Today it means, among other things, that the price of wheat has come down, and that the money it now commands does not pay for the trouble of sowing and reaping.

The reason given for the slump is that there is no demand. The millions of people not engaged in pit speculation, not earning their livings in the sweat of the agriculturalist brow by betting whether wheat is to go up or go down, would like a little more explanation. They would like to know how there is no demand.

Millions of people in other lands are hungry. They can't pay for food. They are not only hungry but starving. They make an urgent enough demand, but it is unbacked by cash. The fact that they perish for lack of wheat and that wheat falls in price because there is no demand for it, in the market sense, affords a saddening spectacle. It is one of the indications that civilization has a long journey to go in order to deserve the title. It isn't civilization yet; perhaps it is on its way.

But few people in this prosperous United States have been conscious of any glut of wheat. They have not noticed that flour—the form in which the grain comes into contact with them—has been so abundant as to suggest a lowering in the cost of products made from it. The old ten-cent loaf is a memory now. The five-cent loaf is even more remote. The mind with difficulty recalls it.

Put down as a fact that if the farmer doesn't prosper, nobody will prosper but the profiteer, and the police may get him. When a farmer can get only a dollar, or less, for his wheat, and cannot grow the wheat at that rate, and wheat products remain at the war plane, there is no occasion to go to Denmark to find that something is rotten.

A Chicago minister who some years ago rescued a girl from great peril is said to have come into possession of a $7,000,000 estate as his reward. While such results do not invariably follow, it is well to keep the possibility in mind, and rescue a girl whenever the opportunity appears.

World Union of Intellectuals

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Perhaps the idea of World Union may be better advanced by the intellectual than by any other class. The idea is in the air. It is the most significant and hopeful of this era.

But so far it has been advanced only by two groups: the politicians and the revolutionists.

Neither of these groups is equipped to carry the idea to success.

The politicians are too much shot through with selfishness and with the fear of losing their jobs.

The revolutionists mix the wholesome motive of internationalism with too much of the septic dirt of envy and fanaticism.

There is another class which is better equipped than either of these to carry this idea to triumph. It is the Intellectuals.

By Intellectuals we mean those people who are occupied in callings where brain work is used; all those whose labor is principally thought and not physical exertion.

Such classes are peculiarly fitted to be the champions of new ideas in a way that can bring them to pass without extravagance or destruction.

Among these are university men, both professors and students. No class of people are better qualified to see the natural predominance of humanity over nationalism.

Other classes are the writers, the preachers, the scientists, and the artists.

Some effort should be made to get these classes together around this great idea. For these men are the natural leaders of the world in the realm of thought.

Their organization for the promotion of wholesome internationalism should be open to any one who acknowledges the supremacy of thought over blind action, of righteousness over expediency, of the welfare of the whole human race over the welfare of some exclusive and privileged nation.

They should organize a league to promote world unity, and thus prepare a deep foundation in the minds of men upon which any political league will have to rest.

They should avoid politics and the pitfalls of personal ambition. They should be willing to sacrifice and give their efforts for the sake of the great idea.

This idea of an intellectual league has already been proposed in some circles. The "Quatrième République" says in referring to it: "Such an organization is not only possible but highly desirable. It should be one of the tasks of the league of nations, which itself was born of the intellectual work of those who stood for an ideal."

"It cannot be understood that the league of nations would interest itself in the bettering of the exchange of material things without also being interested in accelerating the exchange of ideas between the nations. But it is a matter which is delicate and which requires prudence and tact."

So great an enterprise as the unification of the world should not be left to the hands of politicians, who are almost uniformly second-rate men, nor in the hands of those fanatical dreamers with whom internationalism is little better than a hatred of their own nation.

It is the intellectuals alone who are qualified to see the idea in a wholesome way and to deal with it with clean hands.

THE LISTENING POST

Three things.
We had something in this place not long ago about trilogies.
Many good things go in threes.
But there is no significance in that.
They might go by fours.
Or fives or sixes or sevens.

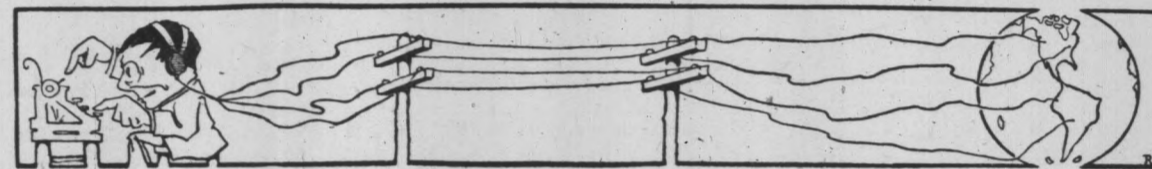

Although it is held to be unfortunate when things go at sixes or sevens.
Why, we do not know.
But it is an old saying to indicate confusion.
Everything "at sixes and sevens."
So it is only coincidental that good things go sometimes by threes.
Numbers have no ominous significance.
Seven is neither unlucky nor lucky.
Unless you are playing a game where seven wins.
But the number itself carries no significance sinister or joyous.

Many of us get into bad habits of superstition.
And superstition is one of the worst of bad habits.
For it disregards and undermines reason.
And whatever undermines or disregards reason is evil.
For intelligent beings are given reason for the purpose of use.

Ancient superstitions were many.
And, carried to their logical conclusions, they led to many evils and injustices.
Such as martyrdoms.
Witchburnings.
Walking of accused men over hot ploughshares.
Breaking on wheels.
And a lot of things of which humanity can only think with bitterness and shame.

So superstitions need to be cast out.
Friday is not unlucky.
The breaking of a mirror will not produce a single evil consequence.
Except that of the loss of the cost of the mirror.

SONGS OF THE POETS

She Came and Went—By James Russell Lowell (1819-1891)

As a twig trembles when a bird
Lights on unseen, then leaves unbent,
So is my memory thrilled and stirred;
I only know she came and went.

As clasps some lake, by gusts untriven,
The blue dome's measureless content,
So my soul held that moment's heaven;
I only know she came and went.

As, at one bound, our swift spring heaps
The orchards full of bloom and scent,
So clove her May my wintry sleeps;
I only know she came and went.

An angel stood and met my gaze,
Through the low doorway of my tent;
The tent is struck, the vision stays;
I only know she came and went.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

Unhappily most of the people who know just what a disarmament conference ought to do will not be on the spot at the crucial moment.

Doubtless Marshal Foch understands by this time that an insult from the Hearst papers does not count.

The latest dotard to annex monkey glands seems to have vanished from the scene. Perhaps he climbed a tree.

A rancher drove into town in a hurry so great that the judge said "Ninety days." Again is demonstrated the fact that the race is not always to the swift.

Only an autopsy could explain the peculiarities of the firebug who burns a forest.

Compared with the throne of Hungary the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow takes on the aspect of pleasing reality.

Trial of the late Virginia Rappe in advance of that of Arbuckle does not seem to be in the best of taste.

There seems to be a discordant note in the strike of the musicians.

Continued mail robberies lessen the chances of Roy Gardner for probation. He started the game.

If things get much worse, the Los Angeles family that spends an evening out without being footpadded and returns to find the house has not been burglarized, will be deemed exceptional.

The senate is embarrassed. Senator Reed has dropped a lighted bomb into its respectable midst. It can't be extinguished without a burning of fingers, and if it isn't extinguished—Goodnight!

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

VICIOUS SUGGESTION

[Boston Eagle]

To raise the tariff on books is worse than stupid. It is vicious. We need all the books we can get, foreign and domestic, and they should be as cheap as it is possible to manufacture them. America needs the literature of the world, despite Mr. Fordney, and it should not be necessary to do more than let the intelligent reading public know what he is trying to do to cause the senate to drop the provision in the new tariff bill relating to books.

GASOLINE AND EDUCATION

[Houston Post]

While some colleges have been enacting rules prohibiting students from maintaining automobiles, and gasoline has been execrated by professors as some-

Hate is a bitter poison. Resentment is only sorrow for the one who entertains it. We've only to think a bit to see which have been the happiest days in our lives—those when bitterness toward others has been rampant, or the ones which have been ruled by good will and sweet fellowship.

It's a horrible thing, this "getting even" that some of us talk about, and, worse still, plan for. If deliberation only went a little deeper in our brains we'd see that "getting even" really means lowering ourselves to the standards of those who have done us real or fancied wrong. It isn't a thing to boast of.

"Getting even" shows that we are taking life far too seriously, ourselves most of all. If we have a broad outlook what does it matter if here and there some one does misuse us? Should they fill our whole horizon? Isn't there enough that's pleasant and kindly left? Why dwell on the hurts when there are kindnesses and joys?

Can't we see that the very fact that we are trying to return the contemptible act brands us as self-centered, unforgiving, vindictive? Who of us in passionless minutes really wants that brand? Is it one worth working for?

The most ironic feature of the whole matter is that the one we are so anxious to get even with often never cares a picayune. It is we, ourselves, who are made uncomfortable and unhappy. Queer, isn't it? But it's true.

thing students have little need for, the Raleigh News and Observer comes forward with the assertion that gasoline is doing much to banish illiteracy from North Carolina.

The consolidated school, the News and Observer says, is dependent for success largely upon the rapid transportation service that the gasoline motor vehicle affords. A "thousand rumbling carry-alls," this North Carolina paper says, makes possible the concentration of children in larger groups, where the course is varied to embrace the problems of country life.

The consolidated rural school is undoubtedly doing more to advance the interests of education in the country than any other agency today. Its relatively greater importance than the small one-room district school stimulates interest among the people and encourages attendance, and its facilities are infinitely better for giving instruction to the children. The consolidated school has done more than anything else to give the country children educational advantages equal to those city children enjoy.

But there must be rapid transportation and good roads for the consolidated school to function. Every rural citizen interested in education must necessarily favor good roads. With the establishment of consolidated schools, the automobile and good roads become important factors in the educational system. As with other modern inventions, it depends on the use to which it is put, whether the automobile is a good or bad thing.

Comment on the News

By HENRY JAMES

HENRY JAMES

Lord Nordcliffe says that if the United States were to leave the Philippines within the next twenty years, the result would be chaos.

It is not probable that this country will abandon its duty to the island while it shall continue to be a duty. It has no desire either to bring about the condition Northcliffe mentions, or to see the natives gobbled by Japan.

In the circumstances, the suggestion from Japan that the United States dismantle its fortifications in the Pacific does not elicit hearty acquiescence. It is not unjust to recent history, to say that Japan has won an unenviable reputation for grabbing the property of neighbors.

If a community were stirred by a reign of crime, and the citizens had gathered to discuss methods of restoring order, they would not listen to any proposition from the Burglars' Brotherhood that locks be removed from doors on the promise that the burglars would thereafter discard jimnies and other accessories of the profession.

Perhaps this view does not accord with the spirit which should mark the approach of the disarmament conference, but, as various philosophers back to the time of Publius Syrus have remarked: "Facts are stubborn things."

Interest in the case of Mrs. Faete, under life sentence for murder, is being sedulously kept alive. A recent story was that she had revealed the name of the person who committed the murder for which she has been condemned. A more recent story was that there was no word of truth in the first. This is the generally accepted view.

There are now 278 life termers in San Quentin, one of the two penitentiaries of California. If the criminals who are committing acts that deserve the fard of a life sentence were all being caught and punished, there surely would be occasion for enlarging prison accommodations.

While an improper picture was being displayed in San Francisco police raided the place, and arrested not only the showmen but the spectators.

Such a course was proper and legal. It demonstrated the effective type of censorship. Arrest and punish the promoters of indecent films and soon there will be an end to indecent films.

Some careless newspaper writer records the "romance of a man of 57 and a woman of 27."

There is no such thing. There are sordid episodes and even tragedies based on the circumstances mentioned, but romance, never.

Senator Watson has added to his offenses an insult to the memory of La Fayette, and thus to France. Georgia has ample occasion to regret having sent the man to Washington, there to make himself both obnoxious and ridiculous. Probably William Jennings Bryan is conscious of quaims as he recalls that this fellow once was his partner in a presidential campaign.

The story that brought Watson into present notoriety was that American soldiers overseas had been hanged or shot at the pleasure of officers, and without the formality of trial. Of course the charge was recognized at once as absurd. There were few instances of capital punishment in the A. E. F. The records concerning them are complete. They were for crimes that in civil life would have brought equally severe penalty.

It is true that Watson is fortified with a picture of a scaffold. He calls to mind the case of the boy who came home with the story of having seen a wild cat in a tree, ending triumphantly "an if you don't believe it, the tree is there, yet!"

The man and woman charged jointly with having killed a mutual friend, continue not to be tried. They are posed in many striking attitudes. They are credited with columns of slush, some of which they may have uttered, neither being particularly intelligent. It is fair to say that the district attorney is endeavoring to try them.

In a pinch the law seems contrived to hamper the courses of justice, and to give the criminal lawyer a chance to win his fee and confirm his proud title.

MRS. GOLDSMITH GIVES WONDERFUL PROGRAM

Tuesday was charter day for the day on which Mrs. Goldsmith gave her wonderful program "Winding Roads to God." The club rooms which had been beautifully decorated by Mrs. R. D. Angelica and her committee with yellow, pink and white chrysanthemums, was filled with members and guests.

Several preliminary announcements were made by Mrs. Hutchinson, the president, and others, and when Alfred F. Priest was named as architect of the proposed new club house, there was immediate applause, which was continued when Mrs. Hutchinson reported a gift to the club of $300 from Mrs. A. L. Burson, who owns property adjoining the club lots on Central Avenue. The president stated the gift was accompanied by the request that the money be used for the improvement of the grounds. In that connection Mrs. Hutchinson referred to the gift by Charles G. Smith of his commission on the sale, amounting to $400, the club thus receiving $700 which it had not been required to earn.

Mrs. L. E. Richardson reported arrangements for the armistice day parade, asking all entrants to be in their places at the starting point in division No. 3 on Hawthorne by 9:30 a. m. She also stated that the sirens would blow for the two minutes of silent prayer for world peace at 9 a. m.

Mrs. Lillian Dow announced the fifth Red Cross roll call, with a plea for its support by members, which was indorsed by the president. Section meetings were announced, and Mrs. F. H. Rowe asked for donations for the Christmas goose, which is to be such a feature of the club bazaar.

Lillian Burkhardt Goldsmith was introduced and eloquently prefaced the readings grouped under "Winding Roads to God," with a beautiful exposition of the heart hunger of the peoples of all times and all climes, and the many roads, some of them rugged and seemingly impossible, by which they are finding their way to God, and made a gentle plea for tolerance.

She began with the poem "My Old Gardener," by Lady Spier, which was followed by one of "Week-End Sonnets" by John French Wilson, and by "The Will To Go," a condensation of the story by Margaret Prescott Montague, so beautifully told that it drew spontaneous applause.

She had considerable to say of Carl Sandberg, whom she declares, voices the most tremendous sociological note in American verse. Of his "Preludes to Playthings" in his book called "Corn Huskers," she read "The Southern Pacific," "The Washerwoman," and from "Smoke and Steel" read "John Brown of Ossawatimie."

Isaiah and Paul are her favorite Bible writers, and she closed with a reading from Paul of Tarsus, poet, prophet, philosopher, strolling preacher, quoting the words of Lyman Abbott, that "Paul is Robert Browning on fire."

When the program closed Mrs. Hutchinson again reminded the audience that the club charter came into being 13 years ago, and that some of the women who started the organization twenty or more years ago are still with us and would be guests of honor. She asked Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, who was the vice-president when the charter was secured, to come forward to represent Mrs. Alice Pack, who was president at that time, also calling to the platform, Mrs. Newcomb, treasurer, Miss Ruth Byram, Mrs. P. L. Church, Mrs. Witham, and Mrs. Parker, at whose house the first meeting was held.

Mrs. L. W. Sinclair, chairman of hospitality, was then discovered wheeling a tea wagon up the central aisle, on which was a big and handsome birthday cake bearing thirteen flaming candles.

The charter members were asked to preside at the tea table at the right of the platform and to assist in the cutting of the cake by Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, and the rest of the afternoon was devoted to sampling the cake, tea drinking, and congratulating the founders of the club.

ANNUAL INSPECTION OF GILLETTE TENT

The annual inspection of Mary Jane Gillette Tent No. 18, Daughters of Veterans, was held Tuesday night in the American Legion hall, 610 East Broadway. The attendance was unusually good and every member was full of enthusiasm and determination to make the meeting a success.

Department Inspector Lida Pearson was profuse in her praise and admiration of the manner in which the officers and members exemplified the work. Much interest was manifested in the reports of the various committees and Alena Roberts was initiated into the tent with impressive ceremony, which brings the membership up to 54.

Arrangements for taking part in the Armistice Day parade were completed. Several visitors came in during the social hour which followed the registration, and all were served doughnuts and coffee.

MRS. LOGAN HOSTESS AT APRON SHOWER

Mrs. John A. Logan and daughter, Mrs. Marshall Pearson of 122 East Park avenue, entertained Tuesday evening at a very pretty apron shower in honor of Mrs. Alice Grey Beach who is soon to become the bride of Homer J. Wellman of Augusta, Montana.

Decorations were carried out in green and white, using flowers and ferns. In the center of the table stood two kewpies dressed as bride and groom. During the evening a jolly guessing game was played, the first prize being awarded Mrs. Jamie Shea and the consolation going to Mrs. Dan Campbell. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses after which Miss Beach was presented with many pretty and useful aprons.

The guests for the evening included Mrs. A. W. Beach, Mrs. Sidney Simon, Mrs. Noble Ripley, Mrs. Wayne Smith, Mrs. John Hobbs, Mrs. J. T. Beach, Mrs. Dwight Stephenson, Mrs. Jamie Shea, Mrs. Dan Campbell, Mrs. D. H. Smith, Mrs. Joe Webster, Mrs. Ellen Kapus, Mrs. O. Andersen, Mrs. Arthur Campbell, and Mrs. Andy Stephenson; Miss Helen Kapus, Miss Pearl Pollock, Miss Jane Snyder, Miss Ernestine Lyon, Miss Lila Webster, Miss Cecelia Lyon, Miss Alberta Heiser, Miss Kathleen Campbell, Miss Mildred Mentner, Miss Addie Hermonth, Miss Alice Grey Beach and the hostesses, Mrs. John Logan and Mrs. Marshall Pearson.

DORAN STREET P. T. A. HOLD BUSINESS MEET

The postponed meeting of the Doran street Parent-Teacher Association was held Tuesday afternoon and was a business session preceded by a social half hour during which refreshments were served and an opportunity given members to get acquainted with their new president, Mrs. A. H. Brown, well-known for efficient P. T. A. work who has recently moved from the southern part of the city to North Jackson street.

Several vacant chairmanships were filled by the president and there was general discussion of important matters concerning the welfare of the school. A decision was reached to have room mothers this year and appointments will be made at the next meeting.

There was no program and the hostesses of the day were Mrs. Clark Johnson and Mrs. Florence Winters-gill.

WELFARE BUREAU MEETING TUESDAY

The regular monthly meeting of the Glendale Welfare Bureau was held Tuesday evening at the city hall with Mrs. E. D. Yard presiding. The report for the month showed that local chapters of the P. E. O. had contributed generous supplies of clothing, shoes, groceries, and canned fruit.

The report also showed that the bureau had given out during the month clothing (96 articles) valued at $56; cooking utensils and dishes valued at $5; canned fruit and groceries valued at $48; and two comforters valued at $10.

The president, Mrs. Yard, stated that now that cool nights have come there is need of more comforters and any help along that line will be greatly received.

Other needs of the bureau were discussed and after discussion of Thanksgiving plans, the meeting adjourned.

ROMANTIC SCENE

MISS PEARSON'S WEDDING
"Grandma, can I be married here this afternoon, in front of your painting of great-grandfather and great-grandmother? And will you play the wedding march on your old square piano that was your wedding present?"

Such were the startling questions asked Mrs. Isaac Pearson of 644 East Harvard by her niece, Miss Clara Pearson, who was a resident of Glendale and employed in the Glendale National bank, though her parents live in Brawley.

Of course grandma said "yes" though she had not known before that her beloved grand-daughter contemplated matrimony. So it came about that Rev. Hugh Cornick bound in lasting marital bonds the young couple, Rex Thompson of El Segundo and Miss Clara Pearson of Glendale.

Grandfather Isaac Pearson gave the bride away, in the unavoidable absence of the father, while Grandma Pearson played softly and sweetly the beautiful wedding march, and just above the pictured faces of the great grandmother and aunt, as they looked in their bright young girlhood when painted by the celebrated Gilbert Stuart, looked down upon the happy event. The young couple went at once to the handsome home prepared for them by the groom in El Segundo.

Hollywood Bowl be Scene of Big Demand for Disarmament All Nations

Glendale women are being invited to participate in a women's mass meeting to be held in Hollywood Bowl on Armistice Day, (Friday) at 3:30 p. m. for the promotion of a sentiment for disarmament. The musical program will include solos by Madame Schumann-Heineke, one of which will be "Battle Hymn of the Republic," also chorus singing led by Mrs. A. R. Gates with Mrs. J. Hamilton Robinson and Mrs. Abbie Jamison at pianos. International speakers representing Italy, Russia, Great Britain, France, Japan and China, will be heard.

Resolutions endorsing disarmament, which are to be sent to Washington, will be presented by Mrs. Frank A. Gibson, and the meeting will conclude with the singing of the Doxology by the audience.

Glendale has been Mrs. Harper's home for many years, having come here from Ventura. Both Mr. and Mrs. Harper spent many years in Florida and it was while there that Mr. Harper passed away.

Their son, Karl Harper, is still living in Tampa. Mrs. Harper has met with several accidents and for that reason uses crutches, but she gets out occasionally, spending Sunday at her nephew's, Ernest Sparr, on Salem street, where a family dinner was enjoyed.

HACKENSCHMIDT IS READY FOR BUTCH FRIDAY NIGHT

Says He is in Trim to Wrestle With Metzetti Legion Show Feature

"Butch Metzetti will have to be the real goods to win his match with me on Friday night," said John (Young) Hackenschmidt today, speaking of his wrestling match at the Sheesley Shows on Friday night with Metzetti under the auspices of the American Legion, Glendale Post No. 127. He continued, "I am just completing my training and I have never felt in better condition. Today I have my last workout on the mat and on Thursday I will do a little road work. There will be no side bets on the match, as far as I am concerned for I am not a gambler, and I believe that betting on the outcome of a hatch can do nothing but harm to any sport."

Considerable interest is felt in this bout by the sporting fraternity of Southern California as it is the first match for Hackenschmidt since he was injured in a train wreck near Bakersfield recently. He was matched with Metzetti about a year ago at Clune's auditorium in Los Angeles and won that bout. Metzetti is out to prove to the world that he can win from "Hack" and that at the time of the first bout he was not in the best condition.

The match will be for two out of three falls to a finish and no time limit. Hackenschmidt says that if the people of Glendale like this match that he will wrestle "Bull" Montana, the donkey of the screen, with reverse English on the Adonis part, at any early date in Glendale.

The way they stack up regards to weight "Hack" is a little the smaller of the two. Hackenschmidt weighs 180 pounds and Metzetti will weigh in at 195 pounds. Hackenschmidt who lives in Glendale says that he will assure the audience the best match that it is possible to stage on Armistice Day and that it will be an exhibition such as has never been given in this city before.

LIONS DISTURBED PEOPLE'S SLUMBER

Lions howling under the windows at night have disturbed the sleep of occupants of a certain house. All attempts to drive them away have proved fruitless. No, this is not an entry in the diary of a missionary to darkest Africa, but a portion of a report made to Glendale police recently and according to the department, wins the brown derby for uniqueness.

Numerous reports have been made of dogs howling and cats serenading, thus disturbing the peaceful slumbers of Glendaleans, but so far as can be learned this is the first time that lions roaring under bedroom windows have caused a report to the police.

It all happened this way: On the night of the arrival of the Sheesley shows in Glendale, a cage of lions was backed under the windows of a house near the show grounds and left there during the night. The lions were cold and they told the world, in loud roars. The next morning, a complaint was made to the police and the management of the show removed the lions. Nobuddy was hurt.

CONNER TRIO SING PATRIOTIC SONGS

The Connor Trio will give patriotic numbers tonight in connection with the evangelistic services which are being held at the Central Avenue M. E. church.

In a little skit which it to be put on, Miss Helen Conner will appear as the Goddess of Liberty and her father will sing "The Flag that Never Touched the Ground."

A big meeting is expected in which members of N. P. Banks post and corps, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire girls, veterans of the world war, and members of all patriotic organizations have been invited to participate.

Mrs. Floyd Wilson of Chicago and Mrs. L. M. Clausen of Hollywood were guests of Dr. Jessie A. Russell at the Tuesday Afternoon Club program given by Mrs. Lillian Burkhardt Goldsmith. The party had previously attended the "public affairs" meeting and luncheon of the Friday Morning Club.

$100—Four Women— And An Advertising Man!

"One hundred dollars for advertising—that's all we can afford to spend for advertising for a very long time," we informed the advertising man. "What shall we do?"

"When you can afford more, I'll make some charge—he said. In the meantime, tell me all about it."

"The four of us are graduate and experienced Marinello beauty operators. We are anxious to inform the women of Glendale about the thorough beauty service now at their disposal in the Marinello shop."

"Good! If women are as interested in their good looks as much as we men are, in Glendale—they'll want information. Continue."

"We are doing the finished type of Marinello work, so well-known in Chicago, New York and the larger cities of the East. Our equipment is of the widest range, electrical and otherwise. It is our idea to make very reasonable prices."

"Excellent service and low prices are fine advertisers—he advised. Funny! My wife doesn't spend half as much on her hair and complexion as I do myself, in my barber's shop."

"How shall we introduce ourselves to the very best women of Glendale? We are sure they're just as kindly and helpful as the Chamber of Commerce and business men have been."

"Well—intelligent and well-bred women always value some personal information about the abilities of the professional people with whom they want to come in contact, he suggested. Inform them."

"At your service, please, the four of us—"

"I am Mrs. Clara B. Moss, widow of a service man, killed in the World War. Graduate of the Chicago Marinello College; instructor since then in the National School of Cosmeticians, I have just resigned to come to Glendale. In my work, I have instructed and graduated over 100 Marinello beauty operators."

"We'll just leave that much in, he smiled. Glendale women will surely know you are very competent. You did well to choose Glendale—one of Southern California's five finest cities."

"I am Miss Effie McCormick, sister of Mrs. Moss; with her, an instructor in National School of Cosmeticians—Marinello. Not yet released, because in courtesy to the School, both of us could not leave at once. But my home and hopes are in Glendale. As soon as another instructor comes from Chicago, I will be in the service of Marinello Shop in Glendale."

"That's fine! Women appreciate fidelity and proper business faith more than the average man, sometimes, he commented, soberly."

"I am Miss Edna, a Marinello graduate, pupil and protege of both Mrs. Moss and Miss McCormick. I've been with Marinello Shop in Glendale for some time. When Mrs. McCracken had to go North and leave us, I was delighted that my two instructors and chums, with whom I have been living, decided to come to Glendale."

"An atmosphere of genuine love for your work and your associates will bring success to the four of you, as it will to any business, he promised."

"I am Mrs. Cora Purcell, Marinello specialist in marcelling, hair work and coiffure. Just from Des Moines, where I owned my own shop. Thoroughly in love with Glendale and California. With my three associates, hopeful that Glendale women will try our Marinello beauty service."

"Of course, that's just a glimpse of your personality. Sorry we couldn't tell more—but women like a continued story, he said. Some of them, I'm sure, will come in to see you, for another chapter. Let's wait and see!"

"The four of us, and the advertising man, thank you!"

BUSINESS WOMEN HEAR PROF. HARLEY

of the club in the Armistice Day parade resulted in the appointment of a committee composed of Miss Parsons, Dr. Hurst, Dr. Haverman and Miss Pollard to make arrangements for such representation.

Prof. Harley was introduced and explained the impossibility of complete disarmament at the present stage of civilization, pointing out that President Harding in his call had been careful to call it a conference to limit armaments as a means of curbing war. He showed that scientific invention had created means of defense so deadly that if we had another world war within 20 years, it would mean the practical annihilation of the population of the world. He referred to deadly new gasses and germs and the tremendous possibilities of airplane warfare. He declared the republic is now the prevailing form of government, having largely replaced the monarchical form as a consequence of war, its democracy varying with the status of the people it serves.

The overwhelming sentiment on the part of women in favor of disarmament was mentioned, and the huge memorial from Japanese women which is being brought to Washington.

He reviewed the history of efforts to federate nations, and especially mentioned the congress in Vienna in 1815, out of which grew the holy alliance, or agreement that the governments represented should be conducted in accord with the principles of Christianity. He named it as the forerunner of the Hague tribunal, which he credited with having settled 16 international disputes prior to the World War. He forecasted that the league of nations would become a valuable promoter of international peace and through it, disarmament might eventually come.

In closing he said: "The greatness of the United States lies not in aloofness from other peoples but in constructive understanding of other peoples."

RED AND BLACKS TO DEFEND GLENDALE

The Red and Black warriors will defend Glendale against Monrovia's gridiron battles Armistice day. The kickoff will take place at 2:30.

The teams are about evenly matched and a real football game is assured. Glendale was defeated last Friday by the fast Franklin eleven. It was practically the same team that beat them a year ago. Because of an irregularity in the South Pasadena and also the Covina game these games are not counted. So Glendale's defeat by Franklin brings her average too low to be in the race for the Central league pennant.

Nevertheless Glendale's spirit cannot be broken and Coach Hayhurst's fast eleven is out to humble Monrovia on Friday.

Capt. Dutcher is quite optimistic in regard to the outcome of the game and he has good reasons to be with men like Stoff, McCourt, Terzo, Green, Ryan and West, Beggs to pick his backfield from. Then with men like Fraley, Effler, Bartow and Richardson to back the line.

Monrovia's hopes are centered on Ed Shaw, the dark streak, who (by the way is 440-yard state champ), has made most of Monrovia's touchdowns for her.

Town Topics

Committee Meets—The calling committee of the Tuesday Afternoon Club met today at an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. J. F. Hearnshaw. They spent the day sewing on aprons for the coming bazaar.

SCHOOL BONDS ARE ORDERED VOTED

two sites referred to above as the only ones which had qualified, and recommended full and free discussion of their relative merits.

When nominations were called for, Cameron D. Thom addressed the presiding officer with considerable eloquence, and nominated James A. Rhoades, secretary of the chamber of commerce. Great applause followed. Alexander Mitchell then nominated Mattison B. Jones, whose name evoked no less of an ovation, but Mr. Jones deprecated any disposition to renew the division which had been provoked at the presentation of two candidates for the chairmanship, and withdrew his name in favor of Mr. Rhoades, who was thereupon unanimously elected to the chair.

Mr. Rhoades in taking the gavel, thanked the audience for the honor paid him and said he hoped the gathering would resolve itself into a practical business meeting to provide the things needed by the young people of the city.

A motion by Peter L. Ferry that the trustees be authorized to call a bond election in the sum of $85,000 then carried with but two protesting voices.

W. B. Kelley then challenged the 60-day option on the Broadway-Verdugo site, saying it would expire on the 6th day of December. He was assured it was renewed and by Mrs. Lukens and Mrs. McOmber, speaking for themselves and their husbands, as owners of the property.

A. B. Smart asked how it came about that the Gray property, withdrawn at the previous meeting, was again a site candidate. Chairman Rhoades assured him that wise men change their minds, and suggested an avoidance of ancient history. Mr. Smart then moved the recommendation of the Broadway-Verdugo site.

W. D. Root moved an amendment to recommend the Gray site as well and that the two be placed upon a preferential ballot to be voted upon the same day as the bond ballot.

L. C. Wolfe protested against the movement to scrap the present high school buildings, representing a value of $400,000, and moved an amendment to the amendment to place the present site on the preferential ballot.

Rev. Smart moved to table the amendment to the amendment, and Dr. Jessie A. Russell protested that such a vote would table all the amendments.

Mr. Patterson moved the previous question, which the chair interpreted to mean the amendment offered by Mr. Root, which was accordingly put to a vote, and carried.

A motion by Mattison B. Jones that all persons having available sites be requested to present them, also carried.

Peter L. Ferry was permitted to speak as a private individual and not as a member of the discharged advisory committee representing the chamber of commerce, in praise of the Broadway-Verdugo site of 21 acres, covered with an orange grove, with a well yielding a flow of 25 inches, street improvements on three sides, accessible by two trolley lines and two bus lines.

Mr. Smart then spoke again, endorsing Mr. Ferry and reciting the site advantages—90 feet higher than the Gray site, an altitude which commanded, he said, a view of practically the whole San Fernando valley, the greater part of Eagle Rock, Glendale, Hollywood and the ocean.

His enthusiastic eulogy provoked some hilarity and Mr. Mitchell facetiously assured the reverend speaker that if he had ever experienced delirium tremens he would have been able to see more.

Mr. Wheeler announced that he had official information that the Pacific Electric intended to extend its tracks to Verdugo road in the event the high school was located there, and applause greeted the statement.

Mr. Wolfe again attempted to register against scrapping the buildings on the present site and was told by Chairman Rhoades that the trustees have under consideration a plan to utilize these buildings for a junior high school. Mr. Wolfe expressed his pleasure in the information, but protested that Eagle Rock, he had been told, had an assessed valuation of but $1,500,000 as compared with Glendale's $13,000,000, and was therefore receiving too much consideration in the selection of a site.

Mr. Coker corrected the speaker and declared Eagle Rock had an assessed valuation of $2,400,000; that it has no intention of building a high school of its own; that it is well satisfied with an union high school, and

THE UNKNOWN
(The body of an unknown soldier of the late war will be buried with fitting honors in Arlington cemetery on Armistice Day)

Mute the loud bugle! Hush the solemn sound
Of tolling bells! Let silence have its will!
The dust of patriot men makes holy ground,
By this dust is this ground made holier still.

This is the soil of Freedom that the dust
Of heroes has made fertile for the breed
Of free men; here the greed and shame and lust
Of tyranny shall wither in the seed.

Aye, this is holy ground! Speak no loud word!
Truce to thy pride of state and place and power!
Be thy soul chaste and humbled; reverently stirred;
And consecrate thy spirit in this hour.

Now look: The flaming spirits of these men
Come forth like blazing fires to make thee hot
With glorious purpose and they live again
And still shall live, till Time itself be not.

Hear now the living soul of him who sleeps
In this new grave that Honor's dust has won:
"I am not dead, but I am he who keeps
This day the glorious faith of Lexington!"

"What need have I, Unknown, of any name?
I am the picket, guard, of liberty;
I am the soul and spirit and the flame
Of Glory, then and now and yet to be!"

"I am the fire to heat the steel red hot;
I am the anvil where the red steel laid;
I am the sledge wherewith the sword is wrought,
I am the arm that wields it and the blade!"

"I am the bugle calling to the fight
Till all the lustful temples overthrowed;
Not dead, Unknown, am I! I am the Right,
The Quick, the Truth, the Glorious and the Known."

Mute the shrill bugles! Hush the solemn sound
Of tolling bells! Let silence be made whole!
The dust of patriot men makes holy ground,
Now bow thy head and consecrate thy soul!

KIDNAPPED GIRL FOUND BY PARENTS

Juanita Maciel Reported
Lost Has Been Found
Father Tells Police

A. R. McCiell, who on Monday reported to the Glendale police that his adopted daughter, Juanita Mae McCiell, had been kidnapped, telephoned the department Tuesday afternoon that the child had been found in Los Angeles. When Mr. McCiell appeared at the police station on Monday he said that his adopted daughter had been kidnapped from her school at noon on Thursday. He said that Tuesday morning his wife had received a telephone call from a woman who refused to give her name, but said that she lived in Glendale, and that the child was at her house.

The woman would not give her name or address to the mother, as she said that she did not want to be implicated in the case. An investigation failed to disclose a telephone call having been made to the McCiell home from Glendale. Mr. McCiell did not state to the police where he had found his adopted daughter or when.

And of the girl who brought him back again to the path of love and happiness. "Snooky's Wild Oats," featuring Snooky, the Human Champanzee, is the comedy, and Kinograms complete the program. Today is benefit day for the Boy Scouts.

Reduction of Armament Bring Scientific Warfare

Industrial and scientific development in peace, convertible to war use, will be aim of great powers, according to Britishers.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The prospect of reduction of armaments is giving pause to many long-headed thinkers in Britain. Generally speaking, the public, except the more active leaders of labor, does not care particularly about the disarmament issue. For centuries, since, in fact, the first English—being of Teutonic extraction—came to this island from Schleswig on the heels of the departing Romans, about fifteen hundred years ago, plain John Citizen has been accustomed to hearing, without noisy complaint, the burdens of arms and armaments and of wars. It is a habit.

That portion of the population which might—with apologies—be referred to as the intelligentsia is beginning to weigh the pros and cons and the dim distance consequences of reduction of armaments. The subject is weighted with a question mark.

We have come to think that only France fears Germany. Fear is perhaps a strong word. But Britain also is concerned about Germany, pros and cons as she seems to be.

The reason is the conviction, abetted by experts in the sciences of war, that the next war will be beyond present imaginings, one of machine and chemistry.

Channel No Protection

Britain is finding that she is very close to the Continent of Europe. The one-time protective Channel has shrunk to the size of a big fish river. Its strategic importance as a bulwark of safety is diminishing.

Moreover, we are told, the next war will be one of industrial resources and the master warrior of the future will be one who can weld a nation into an industrial fighting machine whereof the most far-flung departments of industry become as essentially a fighting unit as the battalion of artillery.

Despite her industrial supremacy in certain restricted lines, Britain is not an all-around industrial nation. Science hasn't the same standing as it has in Germany, or even in the United States.

The opinion is growing that restriction of the generally accepted form of armaments—guns, ships, aeroplanes, masses of men, etc.—will result in the secret devoting of science to new methods of warfare. That, while nations ostensibly disarm, such nations as have the power of control and direction of their industrial development will quietly build it, in time of peace, toward the end that it shall be convertible to war use instantaneously. Germany, above all others in Europe, is such a nation.

Germans Conquer Air

Germany is defeated and helpless. Yet, it is pointed out, she had progressed farther in aeronautics than any other nation, and she is developing this science still further on a commercial basis, within the limits which the treaty allows. Also, Germany's monopoly in certain industries essential to warfare is such that Britain is making frantic efforts to encourage such key industries here by high protective tariffs.

The anxiety of some officials has been so great in this respect that they have just listed dolls' eyes among the favored and protected categories, winning the satirical plaudits of the Opposition press.

With talk of reduction of armaments in the air, just a hint of the old pre-war and war-time theory of the German as a superman in science and the science of warfare is creeping back into the public prints. Just a hint, but it is enough to make some influential men "lean over backward" on the question of disarmament.

The question in some minds hereabouts might be paraphrased thus:

If limitation of the known methods of warfare accelerates development of new methods and gives the highly organized industrial nation a running start toward victory, shouldn't the subject be approached with the most extreme caution?

This is primarily the reaction of the exponent of pure reason applied to international affairs. Practical statesmen who must find money needs must weigh other considerations.

EX-SERVICE MAN IS SCENARIO WRITER

The cook, the newsboy, the automobile mechanic, the preacher, the doctor, the lawyer, the society dame, the grocer, the baker, the candlestick-maker, are all doing it. They are all writing scenarios. So was Louis Francis Camden, late boiler-maker in the United States Navy. While thus engaged during the World War Camden suffered a dislocated shoulder and not being able to resume his former occupation as second-class engineer in the United States merchant marine, the Government undertook to retrain him as a cameraman in the movie industry.

While working as a cameraman at the Universal studio, Camden began to indulge in the greatest vice and extravagance of writers in these parts—writing scenarios. But, vices sometimes are virtues—he actually sold a scenario the other day to the Jackie Coogan Co. for $2,000. The company has also hired him to assist the director in the production.

SOUR MASH BAIT USED TO GET FOXES

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Nov. 9.—John Arms, well-known hunter, has sprung a new idea on fox hunters of this section. It is to scatter mash from moonshine whiskey about, thereby making the capture of the game easy.

While hunting on East River mountain Arms came upon three large foxes that, as he put it, were "as drunk as boiled owls." They paid no attention to Arms, he said, but instead staggered about and fell over one another. Arms supposed the animals had been poisoned, but upon investigation discovered a pile of mash nearby. It was evident the animals had been eating the mash and got "stewed."

BRIAND TO SQUARE UP FOR CARPENTIER

PARIS, Nov. 9.—One of Premier Briand's chief preoccupations, according to close friends of his, at the Washington conference, will be to avenge Georges Carpentier for his defeat by Dempsey. In talking to friends some time ago and after stating that, coming from a family of fishermen, he does not fear sea-sickness on the ocean, M. Briand remarked: "America is being very much spoiled. They had the Carpentier-Dempsey fight, and now they are likely to have the Lloyd George-Briand fight, with President Harding as referee. I must make big attempts to avenge our boxing champion."

TEAMWORK

THE Great War taught us the importance of teamwork. Only through the co-operation of all the Allies came victory and peace.

We believe that teamwork is as important in business as in battles. In inviting your account we offer you the enthusiastic co-operation of our officers and employees, who will gladly work with you in solving your business problems—even the little ones.
